After the famous Notman Photograph

1. Henry F. Farny (1847-1916) an American Painter

Born in France, Farny immigrated to Warren, Pennsylvania. As a young man Farny travelled to Europe to study arts, first in Dusseldorf and then in Munich. In Dusseldorf, Farny not only acquired the technical skills of the local masters but also made the acquaintance of Albert Bierstadt who encouraged him to travel to the American West.

Michael Keropian

Portrait of Sitting Bull

Michael Keropian was born in 1959 in Hartford, Connecticut. He had always admired Greek Sculpture and in 1978, after a tour of the unique antique cast collection at the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts, he applied and was accepted.

This stylized portrayal of Sitting Bull was created in 1982 after the artist's reading of "Bury My Heart at Wounded Knee" by Dee Brown.
